

Quality and elegance

The creation of a tailored garment is a fascinating process, starting from the choice of fabrics that will turn into a perfectly detailed shirt, hand-sewn, following the rules of Neapolitan tailoring.

Excellent quality and image of style strive to conquer the modern man who wears exclusive garments.

Enzo Pisano has been in the tailoring world for many years, ever since 1990, when he started working for the family tailoring shop as a sales manager, extending the brand to international boutiques.

His precious experience and passion can still be found at Pisano Srl today.
Enzo often travels around the world with the aim of conquering the Italian market, as well as the European, American and Japanese ones, where the 'made in Naples' tag has continuously held its charm.

"I like travelling the world and adding to my knowledge, even though the best part of my job is getting to share what I do and what I know. I've created a laboratory with a family atmosphere, where I gladly spend my time, chatting about the products and always finding ways to improve".

A tailored shirt

Each shirt is the hand-made result of delicate steps that require precise scrutiny, careful hands and the mastery of an expert team of tailors.

The fabrics, selected from Italian and English brands, make their way to the tables of the Neapolitan laboratory to be transformed into sought-after garments that follow tradition as well as market trends.

It may be a sartorial shirt, but it's also modern in the fit and in its basic materials.
